

Fat Biking the Northwest Passage
Weber Arctic Expeditions
June 14th - 20th 2017

Day 1: Arrival into Yellowknife; meet the team at the Explorer Hotel. Evening logistical meeting & preparation for the following morning's flight.

Day 2: Fly to Resolute Bay aboard a private charter. Prepare bikes, pulks, tents and food. Spend the night at the South Camp Hotel. Testing of bikes on the sea ice.

Day 3: Depart Resolute Bay early heading west onto the Northwest Passage towards Griffith Island and hug the north coast to a sheltered bay on the north side of the island.

Day 4: Strike camp and head SSE across the Northwest Passage with the goal of arriving near the far north-western corner of Somerset Island.

Day 5: Strike camp and head east along the north shore of Somerset Island towards Cunningham Inlet, this is an amazing place to follow the stunning cliffs of the north shore.

Day 6: The home stretch towards Cunningham Inlet involves some sheltered biking opportunities for amazing historical sites. Arrive late in the day at Arctic Watch Lodge.

Day 7: Wake up late to warm drinks and friendly faces. Take the time to relax and appreciate the running water and showers.

Day 8: Board Arctic Watch's private charter south for Yellowknife.

Cost 8,900 CAD per person (GST applicable) from Yellowknife, NWT.

Dates: June 13-20th 2017

Deposit required to reserve: 20%

Note: All excursions and activities are dependent on weather conditions, desires, abilities and interests of guests as well as local wildlife viewing conditions. All guides reserve the right to cancel or modify a trip at anytime.